Eric Schwelgin
440.567.0145 | eschwelgin@gmail.com | github.com/eschwelgin

Summary
Self motivated leader who takes direction well with a thirst for knowledge and the drive to excel

Technical Skills
HTML – CSS – JavaScript – jQuery – SQL – MongoDB – NodeJS – Linux – Socket.io – Handlebars – Express – LAMP stack – MERN stack

Soft Skills
Communication, sales, management, team work, detail oriented, extremely fast learner

Technology
-Graduating top of my class from Case Western Reserve – Full Stack Web Development Boot Camp
-I quickly developed a reputation among my peers as someone to go to for help
-Additional training in front end development and database design

Projects
fun_game
– A dynamic button based multi player game built using Socket.io
- Creates random sentences using a mySQL database and JavaScript
- The image work on this project is my own using GIMP

Brewery Locator
-Calls out to several APIs and correlates the information into a fluid experience for the user
-Went above and beyond the curriculum by contributing the 'by_postal' endpoint to the Open Brewery Database, which was written with Ruby on Rails
-The project was featured by the Open Brewery Database in their newsletter

JezzBall
-Started in order to challenge myself and to gain a deeper understanding of the underlying mechanics of the language
-Used the Breakout clone tutorial on MDN as my starting point.

Work History
Vaping Industry – Management – 2017 – 2020
-Jumped on board while the market was exploding.
-Started as a store manager, eventually opened an online shop of my own
-VapePerfect.com was my first professional website, built on wordpress, but drove me to learn full stack development

Automotive Industry – Sales and Management / All positions – 2010 – 2017
-Bought my first car for $35 with a burned out clutch, and quickly found a love of racing
-Promoted quickly throughout the industry, I've held just about every customer facing position in automotive

Restaurant Industry – All Positions – 2003 – 2010
- Worked in a fast paced environment specializing in customer service, much of my work ethic comes from my days in restaurants
- Transferred or promoted to every position with the exception of management or bartending
- I am deeply interested in the inner workings of things, and this is reflected in my work